CHURCH WORK COLUMBIA'S LIFE

WHAT SOME OF THE PASTORS ARE DOING—NEWS OF INTEREST FROM MAURY COUNTY MANY ELOQUENT PASTORS—CHURCHES PROGRESSING.

Rev. J. B. Ridley, the pastor of Friendship Baptist Church has just left Maury County to go back to his home in Nashville, this ending a missionary trip, he was away from his home ever since July preaching and doing church work in general. He closed out his revival at Friendship Baptist Church this season giving Rev. J. T. Tunstall, $30.00 for two weeks preaching. He also closed out his revival at Mt. Zion Baptist Church giving Rev. J. T. Tunstall $50.00 for two weeks preaching.

Rev. J. T. Tunstall is from Nashville a city noted to be the headquarters in the state of Tennessee for famous and progressive gospel ministers. His experience in church work in general such as serving as an officer of the church pastoral, a missionary work in general have been beyond the average ministers. He became a member of the North 6th Street Baptist Church in 1900 which his father is pastor and served as an officer of the church seven years and he made a bright and active officer in this period of time, after which he was called to the ministry in 1907. He set up a mission on 11th Ave., between Cedar and Pearl streets on the right hand side of 11th street in a little red house going north. After preaching there in this mission for about six or eight months he was called to Jackson street Baptist Church on 8th avenue and Jackson street, North Nashville. The old Jackson Street Baptist Church is now known as the 10th Avenue Baptist Church. Rev. Henry Huggins, pastor. Then after pastoring the Jackson Street Baptist Church three years he was called to the First Baptist Church West Nashville in Texas Town, which is known as the Nazareth Baptist Church today. Rev. Maury is the pastor. After Rev. J. T. Tunstall had pastored the First Baptist Church, West Nashville, Texas Town, three years he was called to the Vine Glen Baptist Church, Flat Rock, South Nashville, Tenn. After serving there for four years he was called to the First Baptist Church, Columbia, Tenn. He was a successful pastor at all of his stations in which he has served. He has now been the pastor of the First Baptist Church, Columbia, Tenn., for one year. He is doing a tremendous good work. A work that stand approved and also a work that cannot be denied by the Christian family throughout the state. Rev. J. T. Tunstall don't believe that God makes failures but whenever he sends you out to do a piece of work that you must do it and you will do the work that he sends you to do. Rev. J. T. Tunstall was granted his preachers license January the 20th, 1910 and was ordained and granted his certificate of Ordination papers, July the 28th, 1910. He has not lost much time since he has been in the great work. We have taken the words of the Master that is work while it is called day for when the cometh no man can work. The deacons and the Pastor's Aid Sisters with the help of all of the other members of the First Baptist Church are now preparing to send their pastor, Rev. J. T. Tunstall, Jr., to the National Baptist Theological School, after Christmas. Around every dark cloud is a silver lining. Above every low valley is a tall mountain. Perseverance will win. It takes the

DR. GEO. HAYNES WRITES LETTER—MEETING HELD AT GULFPORT, MISS.—EXPERTS SPEAK—DISCRETION AND CARE USED.

(Special to the Nashville Globe.)
The enclosed letter written by the Secretary of Labor last summer to the Southern Sociological Congress is now released for publication as it has a statement of the attitude and point of view of the Secretary with reference to Negro wage-earners and the application of general principles of justice to them which will doubtless be of interest to the readers of your valuable journal.

During the past few months we have been so pressed with other work that we have not been able to send you as much material for publication as you have doubtless desired, but I trust that we shall be able to give you better service in this regard in the future. This letter may be given appropriate heading to show that it was officially released by the undersigned.

REV. J. T. TUNSTALL, JR.,
Pastor of the First Baptist Church, Columbia, Tenn.

Open our church doors again. Columbia is the city of love for church work. The different pastors and their congregations are alive and are working as never before making a way that the world especially Maury County may know that Jesus did die that all men might have a right to the tree of life. Jesus said of me and I shall never die. He told Peter upon this rock I will build my church and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it. Our aim is by the help of the good Lord to hold about two weeks revival meeting, then entertain the Executive Board of the State Convention and with the co-operation with some of the leading pastors and churches of Maury County we are endeavoring to form a Maury County Association which will be done in the above said Board meeting.

Rev. P. J. Whittaker is from Chattanooga. He is an experienced pastor and missionary worker and has been for some time. He is a brilliant, progressive young minister. He feels that he has only one thing to give for the cause of Christ and that is his life and only one thing to gain and that is immortality. He has become a companion and a co-worker with Rev. J. T. Tunstall in this part of the field to take the world for Christ it matters not what the cost may be. They feel that it is well worth the price. Rev. P. J. Whittaker and Rev. J. T. Tunstall, spent a pleasant afternoon Tuesday driving around over the city visiting the sick members of the First Baptist Church in which Rev. Tunstall is pastor. This church being the largest church in the city has several members down with the epidemic. Rev. P. J. Whittaker came to this city about a year ago about the time that Rev. Tunstall was called to pastor the Hazeland Baptist Church. Rev. P. J. Whittaker is now the pastor of the Hazeland Baptist Church and West Brook Baptist Church.

Bethel A. M. E. Church has been in the wilderness for sometime. The Lord has sent us this gospel preacher and he has stood before us as a Moses and has mastered the situation. He is as bold as a lion and fearless of men and women. He was converted to the Lord years ago. He is a God-sent man and thank the Lord that he was sent to us. Watch us, if the Lord will be our helper this ensuing year will be our jubilee year. With Bethel and her good pastor, who has the ability to lead us to victory. Through Christ we can do all things, without him we can do nothing. The Lord told Moses to go to Egypt, he went, Christ told the blind man to go wash and he went. He also told the lame man to take up his bed and walk. And great results were accomplished. Let both pastor and members go first to the Lord and see about the church. Christ said upon (Continued on page 4.)

July 9, 1918.

Dr. J. E. McCulloch, General Secretary, Southern Sociological Congress, Gulfport, Miss.:

My Dear Dr. McCulloch: The special War Workers' Conference for the State of Mississippi, to be conducted by the Southern Sociological Congress July 10 and 11, impresses me as a very significant step in the effort of the Nation to mobilize its labor power for one hundred per cent production in industry and agriculture. Such use of the labor power of the country is imperative as a second line of defense behind the millions of our fighting men in the army corps in this country and in our Navy upon the high seas.

The experts tell us that it takes from six to ten workers at home to keep one soldier on the firing line in Europe. Whatever, therefore, helps to mobilize, distribute and energize those who do the work of our war industries has become as important a factor in winning the war as the prowess of our armies in the field or our Navy on the seas.

The President of the United States has lodged the function of recruiting and placing labor for war industries in the United States Employment Service of the Department of Labor. Beginning with tomorrow, August 1, this service will gradually take charge of the mobilizing and placing of all labor for our industries employing one hundred or more workers. This will profoundly affect all other industries and all other workers. It will correct the abuses and the troubles growing out of the large labor turnover with the consequent disruption of regular work.

In assuming such responsibility the Department of Labor is aware of the dangers. We need the cooperation and help of such men and women as gather in your conferences to guard against these dangers. Workers must not be taken from one essential industry only to be placed in other work not necessary to the prosecution of the War. Discretion and care must be used in the movement of laborers from one part of the country to another in order that the economic fabric of the Nation will be disturbed as little as possible. We need to keep ever before us the idea that the interests of the laborers and the interests of the business men are complementary. They are parts of that great organization of industry and agriculture so necessary to the successful waging of this war and so essential to the life of the Nation.

Above all, every safeguard must be taken to protect the standard of living and the morals of the wage earners. Especially must great care be taken to keep the are limit of those who enter industry at a high level, lest we rob our future citizenship of its right to growth and time for education. We must also take knowledge of the dangers attendant upon the large entrance of women into heavy and hazardous industries.

The exigencies of war times should not be made the occasion for the breaking down of those standards of hours, wages and conditions of work which are designed to protect the childhood, the womanhood and the motherhood of the present and the future.

It is especially important at this crucial period, when we need to conserve all the resources of the Nation for the conduct of the war, that these principles should be applied to all the people of our Country, including the Negro people, who constitute about one-sixth of the total laboring population. A similar policy will be equally important in the readjustment period which will follow the war. I am pleased to know that your Congress is giving the problem its earnest consideration.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) W. B. WILSON,
Secretary.

TEDDY ANSWERS WILSON'S APPEAL

PLEAS FOR G. O. P.—SAYS REPUBLICAN CONGRESS IS NEEDED TO SHOW AMERICA'S DETERMINATION—CRITICISES ADMINISTRATION.

New York, Oct. 28.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt, answering President Wilson's appeal for return of a Democratic majority in Congress, urged voters of the nation, in an address here tonight, to transfer control to Republican leadership. Such an outcome of the election, he declared, would assure "our Allies that America is determined to speed up the war and insist on unconditional surrender of the enemy, and would serve notice on Germany 'and her vassal states' that they would have to deal henceforth 'with the resolute and straightforward soul of the American people and not merely with the obscure purrings and wavering will of Mr. Wilson.'"

Declaring that "half the leaders of the President's own party opposed him when he had committed himself to war measures," Mr. Roosevelt asserted that heads of the Republican organization in Congress supported the administration when a declaration of war was needed, when there was a demand for the draft, when the army was sent overseas and when money was required by taxation or by loans.

The former President spoke at a meeting under the auspices of the Republican Club at Carnegie Hall to advocate the election of "the Republican state ticket here in New York and of the Congressional ticket throughout the Union."

Rebuking what he termed the "servility" of Democratic leadership, the Colonel said it was "a small wonder that in the cloak-room of the House the better self circulates: 'Here's your card, last in war, first toward peace, long may he waver.'"

JOBS FOR WOMEN UNLIMITED

WOMEN IN PATRIOTIC SERVICE—GOVERNMENT FINDING WORK FOR WOMEN—DON YOUR OVERALLS AND SERVICE CAP.

Time has come, says C. T. Clayton, to take up regular work at regular pay.

The best way for many women to show their patriotism is to train for service. Efficiency was never a more highly prized asset than it is today. The Government is helping women to find the work they are best fitted to do, and suggesting how they can best train to fill places of men called to the colors.

"The time has come now when many women must drop their knitting needles for a field of greater service, cease volunteer work, and take a regular job for regular pay," says C. T. Clayton, Director of the Training and Dilution Service of the U. S. Department of Labor. "The fact that women may not be in need of the money has nothing to do with the case. The United States Government needs their service for production, and the Government is very particular about women being paid the same wage as men for services equally rendered."

"The patriotic thing is for women to do the work her training has fitted her to do, provided it has been along the lines of an essential vocation. School teachers should stick to their calling, no matter if munitions offer a higher reward. The youth of America must not be neglected."

"For the untrained woman, who has never worked in her life, industry probably offers a more profitable field than any other line of endeavor. Many factories are organizing training schools in their plants. Two hundred factories, according to the Training and Dilution Service, are spending or preparing to spend millions solely in the work of intensive training of new workers. 750,000 new skilled workers are needed by the country by January first."

"The woman with nimble fingers who is not afraid of grease, and who is willing to cast aside for eight hours a day her fluffy ruffles for overalls, her plumed bonnet for a service cap, and to concentrate on the task at hand is sure of a quick and certain reward."

"Here is an example: A girl from a country village far removed from any war-producing industry came to the U. S. Employment Office and asked for a job. She explained that she had two brothers in the service, had never worked in her life; but she wanted to get into industry, and was willing to take any kind of a job in a war-producing plant. She was placed in a munition plant near New York, and given a job at $8 a week. In six weeks she had been promoted three times and was earning $22 a week. The fact that she had had her salary almost tripled in an incredibly short length of time meant nothing to this young girl; but she was inexpressibly happy to feel that she was successful in doing her part and making good on the job assigned to her. That must be the spirit of the American women in industry—to stick to the job and train herself to work as faithfully and well as any man."

In order that the work of women may give the greatest economic value to the community, every precaution is taken not to fit square pegs into round holes. For this reason women who apply to the U. S. Employment offices are asked to give full information relative to their various qualifications, especially regarding their school, college or technical training. For full information relative to nursing, hospital assistants and reconstruction aids, address the Office of the Surgeon General, Washington, D. C., as follows: Nurses—American Nurses' Corps, Student Nurses and Hospital Assistants, Army School of Nursing, Reconstruction Aids, Reconstruction Division.

In addition to the facilities for training offered under the direction of the Surgeon General, there are 1,579 schools and hospitals throughout the country that register nurses, and graduate nurses from these institutions are eligible to enter the Army hospitals with the same standing as graduates of the Army School of Nursing, according to the Committee on Nursing of the Council of National Defense. They are also eligible to service with Red Cross nurses and the Navy Nurse Corps.

Another opportunity for training is given by the War Industries Board, which is offering in many large cities War Emergency Courses in Employment Management. There are many methods advanced for maintaining happier relations between capital and labor. The solution offered by the Employment Management Section of the War Industries Board is the organization of an employment department and the putting of all matters having to do with living wage setting, transfers, promotion and voluntary employee relations into the hands of a competent and especially trained officer.

The section has secured the services of the foremost instructing author-ties in the country on subjects dealing with employment management, and personnel work. The courses are located in points where universities and industries can co-operate; such as Boston, New York, Rochester, Pittsburgh, Seattle, Cleveland, Chicago, Cincinnati and Berkeley, California.

To these courses employers are invited to send men and women of their own choosing, subject to the approval of the Section. It will be understood that such candidates are to return to their sponsors, and be utilized by them in employment work. In the beginning, ten per cent of the applicants for these courses were women, now fifty per cent of the students are women, and the instructors are enthusiastic over the progress they are making. A preliminary course in Employment Management was started in Cleveland this autumn, and a subsequent course will be arranged there.

The position of employment manager offers a lucrative field of endeavor for women, and like all work that pays well, the standard for service is high. It would only appeal to a woman, who has some knowledge and liking for factory or shop life. The salient requirements are, tact, common sense, resourcefulness, imagination, a broad outlook on life, warm sympathy, a capacity to bear responsibility. Those interested in this new profession should write to Captain Boyd Fisher, 717 Thirteenth Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

In order to train women to take the places of men who have entered the Service, the Railroad Administration has organized schools of instruction in several forms of railroad and office work. Officials state that in response has been so prompt that instruction agencies have many more applications than can be accepted. They are now taking only applicants living in the vicinity of established schools.

There is a shortage of teachers for radio classes of conscripted men and women are eligible for this line of endeavor. The Woman's Radio Corps, 717 Street and Amsterdam Avenue, New York City, has the approval of the Federal Board for Vocational Training in training women as radio operators for teaching positions. Those who satisfactorily complete the course so far for the test before the United States Bureau of Navigation and receive a first-grade commercial license, the same as granted to men who qualify in the same way.

The "Flu" condition, generally speaking, is better. There are still a few critical cases. Among them is Mr. James Dukes. The following departed this life since our last write-up: Mrs. Annie Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Johnson, Mrs. Wm. Baxter, Mr. James White, Miss Gertrude Harwell and Mr. Wm. E. Martin. Mr. Martin was the brother of Mr. Monroe Martin of this place and Rev. Martin of Tullahoma. He had been in failing health all the year, as he was a victim of tuberculosis. On account of much rain and swollen streams washing away bridges, it has been hard to get sufficient help to look after the sick and bury the dead. Mr. Ira Buford recovered sufficiently to return to Nashville last Friday evening. Mrs. Amanda Martin is still improving. Her daughter, Mrs. Ella Holt Jones, returned to Chicago last week to see her husband before he leaves for the camps. Will some one tell us why we fail to see the colored soldiers' names in the casualties? We look and we search but never a name do we see in the papers. Are they not soldiers, too? Are they not giving their life's blood, even their lives? Will some one please explain? We have been asked why, but can't give an answer. Please explain. Rev. Tally was here visiting sick members and trying to collect some conference claims. He saw a few who chanced to be holding out against the Flu and reported a neat sum for all departments. Rev. Tally is a fine Christian gentleman and is loved by his members. He was awe-stricken when he went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Johnson. There was a sick child in each of four beds. One on a pallet, a married daughter and her child sitting by the fire sick, two other daughters and their husbands sick. This, with the grief of the recent loss of a daughter, who left a two-year-old child. Since then another has passed, leaving two small

BAN LIFTED FROM CHURCHES

SERVICES WILL BE RESUMED SUNDAY—CHURCH-GOING PUBLIC WILL RETURN TO SERVICE—RELIGIOUS CAMPAIGN TO BE WAGER

After a suspension of services for nearly a month all houses of worship will be thrown open Sunday to the church-goers. No doubt the first service held will be the sunrise prayer meeting. Most of the Nashville church people hold these early morning prayer services. At the meeting of the Baptist Ministers' Conference, Monday morning and at the meeting of the interdenominational Alliance this week every confidence was expressed in the hope that the health authorities would see the advisability of lifting the ban for the first Sunday, and in keeping with their supplication and in answer to their petition the ban has been lifted. The church-going public will have an opportunity to serve the Lord under their own vine and fig tree, so to speak, this week. No doubt this will be the greatest outpouring the churches have witnessed for a decade. For once it was evidenced that the people of Nashville were tired of staying out of their houses of worship. They were so loyal and so patriotic, all of them, that not a single church endeavored to hold a service. Notwithstanding many of them had heavy obligations financially, and a number had big rallies planned, every one sacrificed and every one assisted in helping the authorities to prevent the spread of the disease, although it caused the closing of their house of worship, stopped active religious work, not a murmur was heard. From now on it is stated by all the denominations that a progressive, religious campaign would be waged, and that every department of the church work would be pushed vigorously throughout the remainder of the winter.

Ever and anon we seem to hear the patter of the rain, which is bad for the cotton gatherer; but Mr. McBuford managed to get out about twenty-six hundred and sold it. He is wearing a rather broad smile now.
